The John B. Goddard School of Business & Economics (GSBE) supports several student clubs and organizations which provide a variety of professional development opportunities, such as:

- Developing leadership skills
- Enhancing and applying academic studies
- Preparing for professional exams
- Interacting with peers, faculty and business professionals
- Competing in national, corporate-sponsored competitions

Many progressive companies view involvement in student clubs and professional organizations as an indicator that a student will bring greater leadership skills and a broader range of experience to their companies. Oh yes – the social aspects are pretty good too!
