Helping Students Lead
Extraordinary Lives

Azusa Pacific University
What is a strengths perspective?

• A revolutionary way to reorient student development work around what is right with students.

• A perspective that believes deeply in the power of potential and each person’s ability to live extraordinary lives through the development of her/his talents, passions and strengths.
Strengths Perspective Builds on Our History as a Field

Historical Approach
Developmental Perspective
- Psychosocial and Identity Development
- Cognitive Structural Typology

“The growth and development of students is a central goal of higher education... To accomplish this goal, educators must be familiar with an extensive literature base focusing on student development....”

(Evans, Forney, Guido-DiBrito, 1998)
Student development theory describes how groups of individuals move through various developmental tasks.

But does it give us an understanding of how to help students live EXTRAORDINARY lives?
Strengths Perspective Arises Out of a Shift in Psychological Theory

• Shift from purely psychology of pathology to the psychology of the positive attributes of individuals

• Increasing attention on studying what works in people’s lives as opposed to what doesn’t work

• Key elements: hope, positive emotion, confidence, gratitude, courage, spirituality, strengths, resiliency, etc.
How does that shift relate to student personnel work?

- Positive psychology research has a great deal to tell us about successful students.

- Students scoring higher on the Hope Scale:
  - Obtained higher cumulative GPAs
  - Had a higher likelihood of graduating from college
  - Had a lower likelihood of being dismissed because of poor grades

(Snyder, Shorey, Cheavens, Pulvers, Adams, Wiklund)
• Gallup Organization and Don Clifton
  - Studied over two million highly successful managers, teachers and employees in a range of industries

Highly successful individuals focus on their strengths and manage their weaknesses

“Let’s fix what’s wrong and let the strengths take care of themselves.” (Clifton)

Business managers spend most of their time working with the weakest performers and zeroing in on mistakes.

Parents and teachers focus on students’ lower grades rather than on their highest.

Student personnel studies risk factors related to potential student drop out. We focus on why they leave as opposed to understanding what are the attributes of highly successful students.

Basic Tenets

Each student’s talents are enduring and unique (no such thing as all things to all people).

Each student’s greatest room for growth is in the areas of his or her greatest strength.

The goal of a strengths based student life division is to discover what is unique about each person and capitalize on it.
How Do We Identify Student Strengths?

One way: Strengths Finder – Gallup’s Tool

Strengths Finder was created by Gallup through a systematic study of excellence.

34 themes describing the most prevalent talents of individuals in an expansive range of fields and professions emerged from two million interviews.

Web-based tool that takes approximately 45 minutes to complete and generates for students a report listing their top five strengths.
