Applying for the M.Ed. Program

Specific directions for the admission process can be found in the M.Ed. Student Handbook on pages 7-12. The handbook can be found at https://apps.weber.edu/wsuimages/COE/med/2014September-Student%20Handbook.pdf. This bulleted list focuses the highlights.

- Check your GPA from your bachelor’s degree. Required minimum GPA for consideration into the M.Ed. program is 3.0; however, with a GPA between 3.0 and 3.24, you must take either the GRE or Miller’s Analogies Test (MAT) and meet the cut score. If your GPA is a 3.25 or higher, an entry exam is not required.
- Fill out the online application which includes an application to both the university and the M.Ed. program and pay the $60 fee
  - Deadlines: January 15 for summer semester admittance; May 15 for fall semester admittance; and September 15 for spring semester admittance
- Schedule a time to come to campus to do the writing sample and technology self-assessment
- An interview with faculty members will be scheduled by the program administrative assistant
- International students have additional requirements; please see the handbook

Applying for the Post-Baccalaureate Licensing Program

Please read the M.Ed. Student Handbook for specific directions. See the website above. This bulleted list highlights the most important steps.

- Meet with the M.Ed. program director to determine if there are additional undergraduate courses needed to qualify for the teaching license. If seeking a secondary teaching license, you may also need to meet with the subject advisor.
- Follow the first three bullets in the above list.
- In addition to the exams discussed above, EVERYONE applying for the licensing program must take and pass the appropriate Praxis II (subject-area) test. Please go to www.ets.org to register for the test. Be sure to use the drop-down menu that lists the different states and click on Utah. Taking the wrong test will postpone your admittance.
- Participate in the group interview process for students seeking a teaching license.
