A couple of years ago, I had the opportunity to meet Max Cleland when he came to speak at an address at a celebration at Hofstra University.

Cleland is a disabled veteran of the Vietnam War. He was awarded the Medal of Honor by President Reagan. He lost both his legs by an exploding grenade. The Medal of Honor is the highest military honor awarded both arms and legs of one person.

Cleland later returned to the United States. Cleland ran for Senate, and he was the youngest administrator to be appointed to that position. He was elected to the U.S. Senate in the 2002 election.

Cleland is a member of the Senate's Armed Services Committee. He's a liberal Democrat, but he's known for his vigorous efforts to improve the lives of veterans.

Cleland was an army officer when he served from 1968 to 1975. After his military service, he went to the University of Georgia, where he was appointed by the University's president.

Cleland's military service was very ambitious, competitive, and generally strong-willed. He served in the Vietnam War, where he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Cleland is a member of the Senate's Armed Services Committee. He's a liberal Democrat, but he's known for his vigorous efforts to improve the lives of veterans.

Cleland's military service was very ambitious, competitive, and generally strong-willed. He served in the Vietnam War, where he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Cleland is a member of the Senate's Armed Services Committee. He's a liberal Democrat, but he's known for his vigorous efforts to improve the lives of veterans.

Cleland's military service was very ambitious, competitive, and generally strong-willed. He served in the Vietnam War, where he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Cleland is a member of the Senate's Armed Services Committee. He's a liberal Democrat, but he's known for his vigorous efforts to improve the lives of veterans.

Cleland's military service was very ambitious, competitive, and generally strong-willed. He served in the Vietnam War, where he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Cleland is a member of the Senate's Armed Services Committee. He's a liberal Democrat, but he's known for his vigorous efforts to improve the lives of veterans.

Cleland's military service was very ambitious, competitive, and generally strong-willed. He served in the Vietnam War, where he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Cleland is a member of the Senate's Armed Services Committee. He's a liberal Democrat, but he's known for his vigorous efforts to improve the lives of veterans.

Cleland's military service was very ambitious, competitive, and generally strong-willed. He served in the Vietnam War, where he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.