GOVERNING BOARD TRAINING

OUTLINE
- Board member orientation
- Fiduciary responsibility
- Accountability to authorizer
- Why does your board exist?
- Governing vs. managing
- How well vs. how will
- School culture
- Policy Governance®
- Pareto’s Law (80/20 principle)
- 30/30/30 agenda
- Strategic plan
- Financial statements
- Ways to get into trouble
- Resolutions

BOARD MEMBER ORIENTATION
- Important new board members receive orientation
- Items to provide to new board members as part of orientation:
  - Contact list with names, phone numbers, and email addresses of board members and principal
  - Articles of incorporation and bylaws
  - Bylaws
  - Policy
  - Board job descriptions
  - Summary of most recent school performance data
  - Minutes from the previous 6 months
  - D&O liability insurance certificate
  - Most recent financial reports and audit
  - Board policy manual
  - Strategic plan

FIDUCIARY RESPONSIBILITY
- The duty of oversight
  - Board members must be reasonably aware of all that occurs in the organization so they can make informed decisions
  - How do you exempt the parent: talking to consistently attend meetings, reviewing minutes, and reviewing documents prepared by the principal (before each board meeting), talking to board members, reviewing financial policies, and maintaining compliance with board policies, etc.
- The duty of loyalty
  - Board members act in the best interests of the organization above all other interests, including personal business interests, related party transactions, etc.
- The duty of obedience requires a board to obey any and all requirements that originate from agencies or organizations that are senior in authority to the board’s authority (e.g., federal government, state government, authorizer)

ACCOUNTABILITY TO YOUR AUTHORIZER
- Focus on high student achievement by all students, and financial accountability.
- Devote time in board meetings (at least annually) to reviewing the requirements in your charter.
- Don’t delegate the board’s relationship with its authorizer entirely to the school’s principal.

WHY DOES YOUR BOARD EXIST?
- Boards of course, do all these things, but doing and being are two different things
- To represent the owners of the school (taxpayers)
- To ensure that the school accomplishes which the owners want (charter agreement)
- To ensure that things that shouldn’t occur in the school, don’t occur (nothing illegal, unethical, or imprudent)
- Activity (10 minutes)
ACTIVITY
- Whom does your board think it represents?
- Do your bylaws reflect that the board exists to represent the school’s owners, or merely stakeholder groups in the school?
- Would you characterize the board as spending more time discussing the owners’ interest or stakeholder interests?

GOVERNING VS. MANAGING
- How do you illustrate the relationship between the governing board and the principal?
  - Board (governance)
  - Principal (management)
  - i.e., the board sees themselves as the super-superintendent
  - This faulty understanding of governance leads to problems.

GOVERNING VS. MANAGING (CONT.)
- How should you illustrate the relationship between the governing board and the principal?
  - Principal (management)
  - Board (governance)
  - i.e., the board and principal must learn how to successfully navigate the intersection of governance and management
  - Activity (15 minutes)

ACTIVITY
- Has your board ever held a retreat where developing its own governance capacity was the topic?
- Does your board regularly allocate specific time on the agenda to develop its skills?
- Does your board read and discuss books on governance?

HOW WELL? VS. HOW WILL?
- Remember, the purpose of the board is broadly ensuring two things on behalf of owners. Ensuring is predominantly about establishing outcomes and subsequently evaluating “how well” those outcomes were achieved
- Executing is about getting things done, and is the role of the principal. Sound execution occurs as a result of selecting and incorporating the best processes to achieve the school’s mission and vision. Execution focuses on “how will” questions

- Establish high standards for student achievement for all students
- Maintain a laser-like focus on achieving those standards
- Establish appropriate boundaries through policy governing principal action, then stay out of her way
- Designate authority to your principal to hire and fire whenever she chooses
- Hold the principal 100% accountable for student results with the stated policy boundaries
POLICY GOVERNANCE®

- Four sets of policies
- Two sets are the board's instructions to its principal:
  - Ends policies constitute the board's entire instructions to its principal regarding the outcomes to be achieved by the school. Ends mean "benefits that the organization was created to produce for recipients the organization was created to serve."
  - Descriptive limitations: constitute the board's entire instructions to its principal regarding things she may not allow to exist in the school. These are worded prescriptively, or articulate what is not to occur or exist (e.g., students are not to be unsafe, money is not to be handled or spent inappropriately).

- Two sets are the board's instructions to itself and its members:
  - Board-Staff Linkage Policies: instruct the board and its individual members how to interact with the school's staff. These policies make clear that individual board members do not have any authority to give directions to staff members.
  - Governance Process Policies: describe the focus of the board's work and should be invigorating and forward looking.

PARETO'S LAW (80/20 PRINCIPLE)

- First, distinguish inputs from outcomes
- The 80/20 principle says a small percentage of inputs (not necessarily 20%) generates or produces a large percentage of outcomes (not necessarily 80%)
- At governing board meetings, a small number of discussion, actions, and decisions have a hugely disproportionate impact on the school
- Activity (30 minutes)

ACTIVITY

- Make a list of everything your board discussed in its last three meetings. Use the minutes of those meetings, plus people's memories, to recall every single item that was discussed.
- Sort those items into two groups: the trivial many and the vital few. Each item can only fit into one of these two categories.
- How much time would you say your board spent discussing each?

30/30/30 AGENDA

- One implication of an effective 90-minute meeting is that the board must refrain from evaluating (or even looking at) the wrong information and asking the wrong questions.
- So then, what constitutes the right information and the right questions in a board meeting? The answer is, information and questions which enable the board to fulfill its purpose (recall slide 6)

- First 30 minutes: How well are the students doing?
  - To evaluate the answer, the board should have at least a vague notion of how well the students should be doing.
  - Sample questions:
    - What percentage of students were reading at or above grade level when the school year started?
    - What percentage of students are reading at or above grade level at the conclusion of the school year?
    - What percentage of students does the principal expect to be reading at or above grade level at the conclusion of the school year?
    - How does our performance as a school compare to the nearest district's performance (other charter schools)?
    - What percentage of students will achieve a year's worth of gains during a year's worth of instruction?
  - How well do students understand (or achieve) specific outcomes pertaining to our unique mission as a charter school?
  - Note that none of the questions contain processed (how well)
- Second 30 minutes: Is everything occurring appropriately?
- Items to evaluate:
  - Spending is not exceeding the budget
  - Students are not being treated unethically or inappropriately
  - Students are not being enrolled inappropriately
  - Environment is not insufficient to operate in the block
  - Teachers are not treated conductually or unprofessionally
  - Assets above a certain dollar amount are not being acquired or sold without board authorization
  - Parents are not being improperly treated
  - Vendor selection does not occur without following P&P
  - Federal laws applying to schools are not being ignored or overlooked
  - The school is not violating any parameters contained in the charter

- Third 30 minutes: Board assessment and development
- Example: Use Ron Carpentier’s “For Further Evaluation” questions at the end of each chapter in Charter School Board University. Discuss a GBOT module. Invite charter schools you want to emulate to share a governing board best practice, etc.
- What does it take to operate your meetings using the 30/30/30 agenda? Mostly, self-discipline as a board.

STRATEGIC PLAN (7 OUTS)
- Figure out what the school is to accomplish and how
  - New plan is to be accomplished
- Find out what else is already producing it and the
  - Principal should find out how they are doing it
- Scope out the environment to determine its
  - Impact on the success of the school
- Write out (the principal should do this) the plan
  - Which is
  - About endpoint outcomes and nine parts process
- Carry out (the principal should do this) the plan
- Measure out how well the results align with the board’s
  - Stated outcomes
- Shout out your results to teachers, students, parents,
  - Authorizer, financial contributors, media, legislators, etc.
- Use the strategic plan to evaluate the board

ESSENTIAL FINANCIAL REPORTS
- All financial reports should be timely, accurate, and comprehensible
  - Balance sheet
    - Shows the net worth of the organization at a single point in time. One of this format: financial plan would be for the school to generate
    - Cash flow statement
      - Shows the cash transactions for a particular period. Cash flow
        - Statement: helps the board and principal monitor the cash position of
  - Income and expense statement
    - Gives the income earned (including that not received) and expenses
      - Revenues that were paid (and vice versa)
- Budget vs. actual report
  - Consists of report showing all income and expense activity from the
    - Start of the current year (July 1) and how the income and expenses
      - Compare with the projected amounts

WAYS TO GET IN TROUBLE
- Utah’s Open & Public Meetings Act
- Government Records Access Management Act (GRAMA)
- Family and Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)
- Failing to file reports
- Failing to ask hard questions

RESOLUTIONS
Consider adopting the following resolutions:
- The Board of WSU Charter Academy hereby resolves that it will
  - Govern on behalf of the owners of the school (the taxpayers of your state) rather than stakeholders in the school
- The Board of WSU Charter Academy hereby resolves it will
  - Focus on matters vital to the long-term success of the school
  - By refraining from discussing any item that is trivial
- The Board of WSU Charter Academy hereby resolves that it will
  - Develop its governance capacity by learning and evaluating
    - Its performance at every regular business meeting
- The Board of WSU Charter Academy hereby resolves to
  - Respond to parent complaints only after our principal has
    - Addressed them or attempted to resolve them
