

We have ASL interpreters available for today's Town Hall.

As we begin, please look for Rachael Miller in the panelists and "pin" her to the screen if you need this service.

- On a desktop, simply click the three dots in the right corner, and select "Pin video".
- On a cell phone, you can double tap on Rachael and it will pin her to your screen.

This presentation will also be available to view, with captioning, in the coming days.

“Safeguard Your Health”

Far be it for us to give medical advice. It is one of the many occupations of life on which we are totally ignorant. Neither do we maintain that we have discovered a remedy for the dreaded flu. We leave that to the good old patent medicine concerns to decide. But we do believe we are right when we say this: If you feel in the least manner “fluey” (if such a word is permissible) for the love of your fellowmen please vacate from their immediate vicinity. Also, if you have the least bit of Samaritan blood in your veins please do not congregate in masses. These two motives, we believe, will do more toward safeguarding your health than all the bottles of Tanlac in the entire city.

How We're Feeling

Students

How are you feeling?

Faculty and Staff

How are you feeling?

This is a lot...

- Students, staff, and faculty have the same stressors:
  - Balancing taking care of family with work and school
  - Adapting to new work and learning environments
  - Worrying about their own and family member's health
  - Anxiety about the financial state of the world and our institution
  - Concern about jobs
  - Issues with so many rapid changes from messaging to the environment in which we live; hard to stay focused
  - Worrying about the future
  - Feeling isolated
