On a motion from Parson seconded by Karras, the Board of Trustees unanimously voted to recommend that trustees receive more detailed metrics involving WSU turnover.

Following the vote, trustees discussed the nature of the data that they would want and how that data would be used. Hall suggested that there could be benchmark data in comparison with other institutions. Trustees said that a high-level annual report similar to data that is sent to the Board of Regents would suffice. Trustees also discussed the possibility of collecting data on both faculty and staff.

7. Brenda Marsteller Kowalewski's community engagement role is expanding. Beginning fall 2015, Brenda will not only direct the Center for Community Engaged Learning but will also serve as the presidential chair for community engagement. This role will entail providing senior leadership and scholarship on community engagement as well as creating synergy among Weber State's various outstanding community outreach programs.

Students have responded positively to the program, and 195 students have expressed an interest in getting more involved in sexual assault prevention and education. In addition, Weber State is starting a Violence Prevention Peer Educator program. Trained students will provide ongoing prevention and bystander intervention skill-based workshops for Weber students.
