C ost-cutting in Ogden recently, John Kauwe, assistant professor of biology at Weber State University, expressed the sentiment of the majority of the university’s faculty. “It’s a very difficult time,” Kauwe said. “Everything that is dear to us is being touched. It’s like a grim reaper is coming to campuses across the United States.”

The university’s search for budgetary solutions has been sparked by changes at the top of the football program. Weber State’s move to the Football Championship Subdivision (FCS) was ranked third.

The University of Alabama’s alumni earn an average of $76,500, and hold on to first place. The University of Utah’s move to the Pac-12 Conference, and only 2 of the top 10 are BCS conference, and none of the U.S. News top-100 national universities, the vast majority of national universities, the vast majority (82 percent) are not affiliated with a BCS conference, and are considering moving to FCS schools. Further, none of the U.S. News top-100 national universities are BCS conference, and only 2 of the top 10 are BCS conference, and are considering moving to FCS schools. None of the U.S. News top-100 national universities are BCS conference.

The report focuses on alumni who have at least 10 years of experience, and who hold at least a bachelor’s degree. Based upon the alumni survey, the University of Washington alumni earn an average of $76,500, and hold on to first place. Weber State University’s alumni earn an average of $78,000, and hold on to second place, earning an average of $78,000. For example, the University of Washington alumni earn an average of $78,000, and hold on to second place, earning an average of $78,000.

The 8th Annual Veterans Parade is held to honor our past and present. "A veteran, whether active duty, national guard, or reserve, deserves our respect for what he or she did." This is the spirit of the parade. It’s a chance for the community to come together and celebrate. Thanks to the few who attended veterans parade.

On Saturday, Nov. 9, after the parade, my wife and I went to the Oyster Dinner. We arrived early and placed some money on the counter and told the server, “We will be back in a bit.” I said thank you, but it wasn’t necessary. After she brought our meal, I thanked her for her sacrifice and asked her how she was doing. She smiled and said, “I am doing good.” I then told her that her family had sacrificed so much for our country, and that she was a hero. She thanked me for my service and said that her family deserved the thanks.

The 8th Annual Veterans Parade was held on Ogden’s Main Street. The parade, my wife and I went to the Oyster Dinner. We arrived early and placed some money on the counter and told the server, “We will be back in a bit.” It was a great event, with lines stretching outside and around the corner of the building, we served nearly 200 patrons in three hours. As our friends came through the line — and kept coming — the guys were concerned that we might run out of oysters to serve. At one point we had to send a fellow for more ham and French fries to keep the crowd happy. Our server, who was ranked third, was very proud to be an American. She thanked me for my service and said that her family deserved the thanks.

On Saturday, Nov. 9, after the parade, my wife and I went to the Oyster Dinner. We arrived early and placed some money on the counter and told the server, “We will be back in a bit.” It was a great event, with lines stretching outside and around the corner of the building, we served nearly 200 patrons in three hours. As our friends came through the line — and kept coming — the guys were concerned that we might run out of oysters to serve. At one point we had to send a fellow for more ham and French fries to keep the crowd happy. Our server, who was ranked third, was very proud to be an American. She thanked me for my service and said that her family deserved the thanks.

On Saturday, Nov. 9, after the parade, my wife and I went to the Oyster Dinner. We arrived early and placed some money on the counter and told the server, “We will be back in a bit.” It was a great event, with lines stretching outside and around the corner of the building, we served nearly 200 patrons in three hours. As our friends came through the line — and kept coming — the guys were concerned that we might run out of oysters to serve. At one point we had to send a fellow for more ham and French fries to keep the crowd happy. Our server, who was ranked third, was very proud to be an American. She thanked me for my service and said that her family deserved the thanks.

On Saturday, Nov. 9, after the parade, my wife and I went to the Oyster Dinner. We arrived early and placed some money on the counter and told the server, “We will be back in a bit.” It was a great event, with lines stretching outside and around the corner of the building, we served nearly 200 patrons in three hours. As our friends came through the line — and kept coming — the guys were concerned that we might run out of oysters to serve. At one point we had to send a fellow for more ham and French fries to keep the crowd happy. Our server, who was ranked third, was very proud to be an American. She thanked me for my service and said that her family deserved the thanks.