"Social sustainability is about making sure that communities and societies can thrive and continue to exist in a healthy, fair, and equal way. It focuses on improving people’s quality of life, fostering strong relationships, and ensuring everyone has the chance to fulfill their potential."

Leah A. Murray, WSU’s Brady Presidential Distinguished Professor, Political Science & Philosophy Director, Walker Institute of Politics & Public Service

Leah will present on the importance of civic engagement in our community & how students play a key role in our local campus culture about elections. Leah will also provide instructions on how to join #webervotes.

Andrea Hernández, WSU’s Women’s Center Program Coordinator

Andrea will be speaking about Inclusivity on campus and within our community while discussing the importance that inclusive language, intersectionality, and culture have on Weber’s emerging socially sustainable community.
