

Mahalingam Subbiah
Professor of English

Education:

Ph. D. in English with Technical Writing emphasis.

Oklahoma State University

1987

B. Ed. 1971

B.Sc. Botany, 1970

Both from India

Awards & Honors:

Hemingway Faculty Vitality Award (Twice)

Courses Taught:

Technical writing (Graduate and undergraduate)

Literature (Graduate and undergraduate)

English composition (Undergraduate)

Courses taught in all formats: Face-to-face, online, virtual, hybrid

Research & Publications

Current research interests:

Project-Based Learning

Online teaching and learning

Power of language and its appreciation in literary analysis

Narrative strategies

Published in:

Technical Communication

Technical Communication Quarterly

IEEE Professional Communication

A chapter in Foundations for Teaching Technical Communication: Theory, Practice, and Program

Design, Ablex

Weber, The Contemporary West

Service:

Served in various departmental, college, and university committees including Faculty Senate

(twice)

Served as English Dept. MA program director.

Serves as Rocky Mountain Modern Language Association president

Fun Fact:

After nearly 45 years of teaching, still look forward to stepping into a classroom and interacting with curious minds